Geo. W. Jones Dead.

Last Sunday afternoon about 2:30 a shadow of gloom was cast over our little city and the entire citizenship thrown into sorrow when the news was circulated that George W. Jones was dead.

Mr. Jones, who had been sick for several months with leaking heart, and to be getting along as well as usual, and when the Grim Reaper, death, took him, he was sitting in a chair. He dropped his head and the peace was peacefully wafted away to Maker.

Mr. Jones was born Aug. 1, 1850, in Jones County, and was a little over 65 years old at the time of his death. His father was a Methodist minister, and raised his son to be a peace-loving, God-fearing man, and respected by all.

Mr. Jones, with his parents, moved to Hondo when about twelve years of age, and several years ago he was engaged in the mercantile business here. He was the organization of the First National Bank of Hondo he was unanimously chosen as president, which position he held up to the time of his death.

On June 12, 1894, he was happily married to Miss Margaret Katherine Smith. This union was blessed with a child, Hal. Besides his grief-stricken widow and sorrowing son, Mr. Jones is survived by two sisters, two brothers, Mrs. J. C. Newton, Nancy and Mrs. J. C. Mitchell of Utopia, Messrs. C. S. Jones of Utopia, T. Q. Jones of Carter Valley.

The remains were laid to rest in the cemetery Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Funeral services were conducted at the residence by Rev. M. Alexander, the Methodist minister. The Masonic lodge, of which Mr. Jones was a member, then took charge of the body and interment was made by the Masons in their usual and impressive way.

One of the largest corteges of mourning friends ever seen in this town showed their love and respect to the deceased and his family by accompanying the remains to their last resting place.

Out of respect to the deceased, who was a former member of the school board, the public schools were closed at noon and all business houses closed at three o'clock.

In the death of Mr. Jones, his family loses a kind, dutiful and loving husband and father. The State has lost a loyal citizen, Medina county and town of Hondo suffers the loss of a broad-minded liberal and progressive man—one who was always working hard and valiantly for the moral and social uplift of his fellow-men, and who has done as much for the progress of his town and county as mortal man could do.

To the heart-broken widow and mourning son, the sisters and brothers, The Anvil Herald sincerely joins its many friends in extending condolence in their great sorrow.

Next to the State Convention this is the most important meeting held by the farmers, and the gentlemen above mentioned were sent as delegates from the various Local Unions in the county to this meet. They are all men of strong mentality, of earnest purpose and will doubtless render valuable service to their constituency. If every local represented at the meeting are as fortunate in this respect as the locals of this county much good should be derived by the farmers from this Conference.

Muennink-Mumme.

Mr. Frank Muennink and Miss Mollie Mumme were united in the holy bonds of matrimony at the Methodist church at New Fountain Thursday afternoon at 5:30 o'clock. Rev. P. H. Hensch, the pastor, performing the ceremony.

The happy young couple came to Hondo immediately after the ceremony and left on the evening train for a honeymoon trip to eastern points. The young couple were born and raised in this country, and number their friends by the score.

The Anvil Herald joins their many friends in wishing them a long, happy and prosperous married life.

Miss Laurie Woolls.

At seven o'clock yesterday morning the gentle spirit of Miss Laurie Woolls took its flight to its God, after an illness of about a week.

Never of a very robust constitution, and weakened by several severe attacks of sickness within the past year, her vitality was too near exhausted to enable her to withstand this last attack.

About a week ago she was stricken with the malady that, despite everything that medical science or kindly, loving nursing could do, terminated fatally just at the hour when loving relatives and friends had begun to build up hopes of her ultimate recovery.

Her malady had developed so rapidly for the twenty-four hours previous to her demise that it was decided by her physicians that the only hope of prolonging her life and the ultimate restoration of her normal health was possible only by an operation, and for this purpose Dr. Hicks of San Antonio was called. He arrived in Hondo about 9:00 o'clock Thursday night and shortly afterward the operation was performed. So splendidly did she stand the ordeal that the watchers at her bedside were greatly encouraged, and her death came as a great shock.

Decedent was born in the vicinity of Hondo May 6, 1892, and her entire life, save a few months spent in Eagle Pass, was passed in this immediate section, she being a graduate of the Hondo High School.

At an early age she joined the Methodist church and the greatest pleasure of her brief life has been derived from her service of the church and its various auxiliary societies, her League being her special delight.

Miss Laurie's gentle, womanly demeanor had endeared her to every one who knew her and her untimely demise caused tears to dim the eyes of many whose eyes are not used to tears. She will be held in loving memory by scores and scores of friends in every walk of life.

She was the eldest of a family of eight children, and is survived by her mother, on whom this blow has fallen with crushing force, four sisters, Misses Jennie, Nettie, Lucile and Gladys, and two brothers, Selby and Newell Woolls. One brother preceded her to the grave by some four years. Besides her immediate family she leaves a grandfather, E. W. Lacy, an aunt, Mrs. D. W. Short, and an uncle, O. E. Lacy.

The funeral occurred from the Methodist church at 3:30 yesterday afternoon, and was largely attended. Many beautiful floral offerings were sent by friends, one of the prettiest being presented by the graduating class of the Hondo High School.

The family have the sympathy of the entire population of Hondo in their great bereavement.

Change in Bank Officials.

On account of the death of George W. Jones, president of the First National Bank, the directors met Tuesday and elected the following officers: John M. Finger, President; Horace Bradley, Cashier; Chas. Finger, Assistant Cashier; and J. F. Dilworth was employed as bookkeeper.

August Kempf, our popular District Clerk, was elected a director to take Mr. Jones' place on the directorate.

Mr. Finger has served as cashier of that institution for about eleven years, and by painstaking attention to all business and uniform courtesy to customers was entitled to the promotion to president.

Mr. Bradley has been with the bank nine years and his promotion to the office of cashier was a reward for faithful duties performed.

Charlie Finger has been with the bank about six years, and has given thorough satisfaction.

Mr. Dilworth is an experienced bookkeeper, well known and universally popular.

We are confident that the affairs at the First National Bank will be conducted on safe and conservative lines as heretofore.

Commissioners' Court.

The county commissioners' court met in regular session Monday, and were busy up to yesterday morning, principally on routine business.

Commissioner Ney was absent from the court on account of sickness.

Bids for the construction of about 20 miles of graveled roads in precinct No. 2, was received and considered, and all bids rejected.

Bids for sale of road bonds received by court, and still pending.

Adolph Tondre appeared before the court and requested the closing of the road known as the old coal road, in precinct No. 4. Court ordered the road closed.

Petition of Wm. Reitzer, and others for road over Medina dam, indefinitely postponed.

Petition of O. J. Wurzbach and others for second class open road, precinct No. 2, granted.

Petition of Joe Langfeld and others for extension of the Finger road, terminating at Butts' gin, passed over awaiting approval of Commissioner Ney.

Dr. J. H. Fletcher was, on suggestion of Dr. W. H. Smith, appointed deputy county health officer.

Quarterly reports of various officers examined and approved.

County warrants compared and cancelled.

Quite a number of wild animal scalps were redeemed.

The court adjourned yesterday evening.

Died.

Miss Animate Buchanan, the 10-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. B. Buchanan, of Tarpley, died in Hondo Tuesday morning, Nov. 2, 1915, at six o'clock of rheumatism. The remains were taken to Tarpley, where interment took place the following day.

The little girl had been sick for some time, and a few days before her demise she was brought here and lodged at the home of her uncle, J. C. Stracener, for medical treatment. The throes of that dreaded disease had her too strongly, and despite all that physicians and loving hands could do, the soul took flight and returned from whence it came.

The Anvil Herald extends its condolence to the sorrowing parents and other relatives.

I CAP and BELLS

WHERE REAL TROUBLE BEGAN

Argument Between Hogan, Casey and O'Brien Progressed Smoothly Until Stranger Butted In.

When a man just naturally wants trouble it is mighty easy to find an excuse for making it. According to Mike Hogan, Casey and O'Brien were having an argument of their own. It had progressed to the extent that each had forgotten what it was about originally, and they were wholly oblivious of the gathering crowd until an urbane and genteel person in a frock coat put in.

"Come, come, my man," he said, gently plucking Casey by the sleeve. "You don't want to fight. I can tell it by your looks. Your face is too benign."

"Two be nine! Two be nine, is it, ye scut!" bellowed Casey. "Me face is two be nine, is it?"

And there was where the real trouble began.—Louisville Times.

Important Inquiry.

"Father," said the small boy, "couldn't George Washington tell a lie?"

"That statement has been seriously made, my son."

"Well, what did he do when his folks had unexpected company and he was told to say he didn't want any pie for dessert?"

Hopeful Future.

"To tell you the truth," said the man who is ostentatiously cheerful, "the hotter the climate is the better I like it."

"I envy you and your calmness of mind," replied the sardonic person, "and trust, for your own comfort, that your ideas of future punishment are strictly orthodox."

The Eternal Feminine.

Pretty Daughter—Papa, I'd like to give a party next week.

Papa—Why, my dear, you gave one only last week. Do you think it necessary to entertain your friends so often?

Pretty Daughter—But this is not to entertain my friends; it's to snub my enemies.

Only Difference.

"One of my daughters has tonsillitis," exclaimed Mr. Growcher, "and the other has sprained her wrist."

"That's hard luck!"

"Yes. Nothing seems to work out the way it ought to. The girl who sprained her wrist sings, and the one with a sore throat plays the piano."

The Two Orders.

Business Manager—Well, how many orders did you get yesterday?

Traveler—I got two orders in one place.

B. M.—That's the stuff! What were they?

T.—One was to get out and the other was to stay out.

A Correction.

Friend (intending to compliment)—I heard somebody say the other day, Mr. Niggs that your wife was a fine conversationalist.

Niggs—She's nothing of the sort.

Friend—No?

Niggs—She hates conversation. She's a monologist.

UNKIND.

Ella—He says that he shall never forget me.

Stella—No; you have one of those indelible faces.

No Cause for Alarm.

Omar—Death loves a shining mark, they say.

Hazel—Oh, well, don't be uneasy. You're not so brilliant.

Make Work Easier.

Hondo People Are pleased to Learn How it Has Been Done.

It's pretty hard to attend to duties With a constantly aching back;

With annoying urinary disorders.

Doan's Kidney Pills have made work easier.

So thousands have gratefully testified.

They're for bad backs.

They're for weak kidneys.

Hondo people gratefully recommend Doan's.

Mrs. Jack Droticourt, Hondo, says:

"A severe attack of backache kept me in the house for two weeks. My back was a solid pain, scarcely letting up night or day. I felt miserable and wasn't able to attend to my housework. Two boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills, which I got at Windrow's Drug Store, took the pains out of back and completely cured me of the trouble. Three years have passed and it hasn't returned."

Price 50, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that cured Mrs. Droticourt. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.

Greatness is the simplest thing in the world—simple and natural or else it would not be greatness.

Distress in the Stomach.

There are many people who have a distress in the stomach after meals. It is due to indigestion and easily remedied by taking one of Chamberlain's Tablets after meals. Mrs. Henry Parighan, Victor, N. Y., writes:

"For some time I was troubled with headache and distress in my stomach after eating, also with constipation. About six months ago I began taking Chamberlain's Tablets. They regulated the action of my bowels and the headache and other annoyances ceased in a short time." Obtainable everywhere.

They call it fiction because, according to it, all married couples live happily ever afterward.

How to Prevent Croup.

It may be a surprise to you to learn that in many cases croup can be prevented. Mrs. H. M. Johns, Elida, Ohio, relates her experience as follows:

"My little boy is subject to croup. During the past winter I kept a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy in the house, and when he began having that croupy cough I would give him one or two doses of it and it would break the attack. I like it better for children than any other cough medicine because children take it willingly, and it is safe and reliable." Obtainable everywhere.

The fleeting scent of perfume is sweeter and more pleasing than the aromatic continuance of it.

What Would You Do?

In case of a burn or scald what would you do to relieve the pain? Such injuries are liable to occur in any family and everyone should be prepared for them. Chamberlain's Salve applied on a soft cloth will relieve the pain almost instantly, and unless the injury is a very severe one, will cause the parts to heal without leaving a scar. For sale by All Dealers.

A tight feeling in the chest accompanied by a short, dry cough, indicates an inflamed condition in the lungs. To relieve it buy the dollar size Ballard's Horehound Syrup; you get with each bottle a free Herick's Red Pepper Porous Plaster for the chest. The syrup relaxes the tightness and the plaster draws out the inflammation. It is an ideal combination for curing colds settled in the lungs. Sold by W. H. Windrow.

Some people are never so happy as when they are advising their friends to take some kind of medicine.

This distressing disease results from a disordered condition of the stomach, and can be cured by taking Chamberlain's Tablets. For sale by All Dealers.

WON FROM DEFEAT

His Greatest Success Came to Him in the Midst of Failure.

By MAY C. RINGWALT.

"I'm tired and sick of it," sighed
Letitia, her complaining voice rasping upon Digby's nerves like the rough touch of sand paper. "Housework from morning till night. Cooking a meal, eating a meal, washing dishes after a meal—that's all I have in my life."

Instinctively Digby looked about the cozy living room with the bright flames
in the open fireplace, the bright flowers from the home garden that Letitia had so artistically arranged in their pretty vases—with Mildred's new piece of music on the open piano.
Tom's violin case in the corner, Pink's reversible doll sprawling on the sofa,
the black Dinah head uppermost.

"I might as well talk to a stone wall
as to you, Digby," his wife went on querulously. "Sitting there like a graven image staring into space and smiling—actually smiling!"

"I wasn't conscious of smiling," apologized Digby, "but it seems so pleasant here—so homey and comfortable."

"Yes, very pleasant and comfortable," she repeated sarcastically.
"When all you have to do is sit down and take your ease."

Again Digby found it impossible to put his thoughts into words, but as the sense of weariness that he had shaken off as he contentedly seated himself
in his arm chair swept over him once more, his mind turned back to the long, hard day's work in his orange grove.

"The crop won't be as large as last spring," he said with exasperating irrelevance, "but I never saw finer valencies than we have this year."

Letitia's lips curled.

"And what good will it do us?" she cried, adroitly using the turn in the conversation for a new angle of fault-finding. "You'll simply put in more trees. Spend the money in new irrigating ditches—new piping. I'll have nothing to show for it."

"Letitia," he asked with a puzzled
pucker in his forehead, "what are you driving at?"

"I'm driving at being poked away
on a stupid ranch year in and year out instead of spending our winters in town like other people!"

He understood at last—their next-door neighbors' proposed flitting to Los Angeles was responsible for Leti-tia's sudden discontent.

"My dear," he blundered, pleased at having so reasonable an argument to offer, "Jim Morton's position is very different from mine. He married a rich wife, and—"

"And you only a penniless orphan!"

The red danger signals flared in Leti-tia's cheeks and her black eyes
flashed. "But I can tell you right now, Digby Hollister, if I was only a country school teacher when you married me, I had more money then to spend on myself than I've ever had since.
More good times. More—everything.
And if I'd known—if only I'd known what an endless grind married life was, I'd have remained single to my dying day!"

"Letitia, do you mean that?"

"Yes, I mean that—and a great many other things that wouldn't be pleasant for you to hear!"

And dashing down the magazine
whose leaves she had been cutting, Letitia took flight in a tempest of anger and tears.

One day followed another, and strangely enough the world went on as though nothing had happened. But to Digby the sweetness had suddenly gone out of the meadow lark's liquid music. No longer was there warmth and color and beauty in the cloudless sky, in the deepening gold of the oranges on his trees. And in the house, while Letitia talked to him as usual, perhaps a little more than usual, while Pink still perched on his knee, Tom discussed football with the same enthusiasm, and Mildred dimpled and coquetted in her woman-child way, there was a deep gulf fixed between the old happiness and the present beaming sense of discouragement and failure.

Digby had other worries besides the quarrel with his wife. A high wind blowing and buffeting through the orchard had kept him on tenterhooks
for twenty-four hours and left him anxious. Few oranges had fallen.
They were too heavy, had too firm a grip upon the tree. But the wind had stripped off leaves, broken some of the weaker branches. Left here, there, everywhere, patches of fruit exposed to frost should a cold snap set in.

And it was an unusual year in southern California. The rainfall below the average. The weather unseasonable, changeable so that no one knew what to expect next.

There was a nervous tension throughout the community. An eager comparing of notes in regard to "off"
years. A heated discussion of probabilities among the weatherwise.

During all this trying time of waiting and watching, Digby was very silent—"gloom," Letitia called it, quietly recollecting that he did not talk over his anxieties.

But to Digby talking things over
with his wife was no longer possible.
For it was the truth behind Letitia's
angry words that cut to the quick.
When he married he had expected
such a different future for himself
than the one he had been able to realize. He had expected, though, that other things that he had not banked on then had made up for the honors and riches

that he had boyishly dreamed to lay at the feet of the woman he loved with an old-fashioned knightliness of heart
—happy little surprises of their daily comradeship that had flowered their uphill path of toil and struggle; the joy and pride that they had taken in their children; their pleasant neighborhood interests and intimacies. But now that he knew that the purple and fine lines of life were necessary to Leti-tia's happiness, that she had bitterly felt their lack, every mischance suddenly seemed part and parcel of his failure to satisfy her, and humiliated he hid his fears deep down in the depths of his sensitive, hurt soul.

And more and more chill grew the air that swept down from the snow-covered mountains—fitfully the mercury fell and rose again—fell and rose.

The smudging pots were put in readiness. An extra supply of crude oil laid in. A dozen times a night Digby was up, his head out the window.

Then with the unexpectedness of the long expected the blow came. In an hour's time, the mercury dropped ten degrees. And the sun was still shining a pale, sickly shine.

"A killing frost tonight," was the bulletin of warning read in dumb silence throughout that fruit-growing world.

But it was a brave world. No thought of supinely giving up until driven to the last ditch. War had been declared. That was all. The fight was on.

In the darkness of night and the death grapple Digby's garden of golden beauty and promise was suddenly transformed into a hell of ghoulish ugliness lurid with leaping flames,
belching forth black clouds of smutty smoke.

His face a dull, blank white, a hunted look in his eyes, hour after hour,
the master of the garden worked like a demon possessed—and knew that all his labor, all his expense, was in vain.

At last, just as the mocking brightness of dawn was flushing the darkness of the eastern sky, Digby, leaving the fires in charge of his hired man,
staggered back to the house and, stealing in like a thief in the night,
dropped exhausted upon the livingroom floor.

At the sound of the stealthily-opening front door, Letitia, who had spent sleepless hours lying dressed on the foot of the bed, sprang eagerly up and lighted her candle.

Then suddenly a strange, sickening sensation went through her entire being.

Something—someone had fallen.

She ran into the hall, and, holding out her candle, peered into the black depths below.

"Digby!" she tried to call out, but her throat closed and she could not articulate.

She had no recollection of going down the stairs, but an instant later
she found herself in the living room,
her shaking candle held over the unconscious form at her feet.

The pale light from the candle accentuated the white haggardness of her husband's face, the black smudges
of soot that gave it a weird uncanniness.

"Digby!" she cried, frantically shaking him by the arm. "Digby!"

There was an answering tremor in the crumpled body. A stir of movement. Slow lifting of the heavy eyelids. A deep-drawn sigh.

She set down the candle and ran for water—a glass of wine. Kneeling by his side, she gently forced her arm under his shoulders, raising him into a sitting posture, his head pillowed
against her breast.

"Another failure, Letitia," he faltered at last. "All—our oranges—are gone."

"What difference does it make about
the old oranges!" she cried joyously, tears streaming her cheeks. "What difference about anything, so we still have each other! Oh, Digby you gave me such a fright! I thought you were dead!"

MADE FROM VEGETABLE OILS

Material Used in Manufacturing Margarine, the Substitute for Butter.

Margarine, the cheap substitute for butter, is made now principally from vegetable oils. These are coconut oil, palm oil and cottonseed oil. A certain amount of butter is generally contained in it, but in most countries
the quantity of this is restricted by law.

These oils are carefully refined by complex chemical processes and blended in proportions that will make them imitate butter as nearly as possible. They must melt readily at the temperature of the human body, otherwise they cannot be digested.

These fats, although possessing the same nutritive value as butter, do not contain the vitamins that are so essential to maintain normal growth
and health, while butter and olive oil
do contain them, says an exchange.
So anyone who uses these substitutes should be careful that the rest of his dietary makes up for this deficiency.
For example, a diet of bread made from bleached flour with margarine instead of butter would not maintain health and would need to be supplemented by plenty of milk, fresh vegetables and eggs.

According to a recent dispatch from Germany, an attempt is now making there to utilize sunflower seeds as a source of material for margarine.

Small Haul.

"Well, what's the catch today?"
asked the commanding officer.
"Thirty prisoners, excellency."
"Bah! I never take home a string of less than 30,000. Throw 'em all back!"

EDITOR HAD AN IDEA

But Circumstances Prevented Him Utilizing It.

Something Happened Which Was Worth Ten Such Thoughts as Had Come to the Scribe—So This Particular Gem Was Lost.

One day the Observer had an idea.
It is a rare experience, and the obvious thing to do was to get it down on paper just as quickly as the speed limit on his old typewriter allows.
He grabbed a sheet of paper, rammed
it into the typewriter, and started reaching for the first letter when the office door opened and a lady came in.

The lady, whose home is near Milford, extended a piece of paper and some money, with the remark that it was a subscription bill, somewhat overdue, which she had come in to pay. Glancing at the paper the Observer had a shock which drove that incipient idea into the remotest corner of his belfry, where it seems to be lost forever. He is absolutely unable to remember what that great thought was about, what stirring gleam of sense was about to be born and given to the world. This is his excuse:

The bill which was extended for payment was dated May, 1894.

The explanation was that an old trunk in the attic was wanted for use,
and in cleaning it out, among a lot of old receipts and papers, they had discovered this old bill. The system of filing bills and receipts was such as to make these honest people quite sure that the bill had not been paid.

The lady was assured that if there was any record of the account, now 21
years old, it was in the cobweb-encrusted old books in the garret, that the account was outlawed anyway, and that very likely a duplicate of the bill had been paid 20 years ago. She was obedient. She had come to pay that bill and get a receipt. An offer to receipt it for half the amount was not satisfactory. It was her rule, and her husband's, to pay in full for everything, and she had traveled several miles to settle an account old enough to be a legal voter. She paid and took her receipt, and if she did not then and there create a world's record for deferred payment she made one which is seldom equaled.

As stated, the bill was paid but the "idea" was gone. However, the idea was probably worth about twenty cents, which is one-tenth the amount of the bill, so if anybody else can dig up any antique accounts and pay them
they are welcome to drive out, shoo away, slaughter and swat any and all budding notions, at any time, any place, day or night.—Milford Cabinet.

EASY TO HAVE PURE WATER

Simple Filter That May Be Constructed Wherever Campers Are on Banks of a Stream.

A simple filter and cooler that anyone the least ingenious can prepare is described in detail in the Journal of the American Medical Association.
With it pure water may be obtained from any stream of water.

A large pail with a stout handle is the best receptacle for the water. A hole is punched in the bottom and over it a tin box is soldered. The floor of the tin box—one of the kind in which candy is packed may be used—is perforated with holes and a spring is attached to the cover and the bottom of the box. The spring is inclosed in a tube made by rolling up a sheet of tin obtained, with solder, from tin cans.

A chain is attached to the watertight
cover of the box and the box is filled with alternate layers of charcoal and well-packed cotton.

Suspended in the stream, the pail
soon fills up with the filtered water.
Then, by loosening the chain, the spring cover drops back watertight on the box, and the whole pail, full of filtered water, is ready to be carried off
for use.

Their Long Kid Gloves.

Some ingenious women in Ireland
have found a use for their discarded
long white or colored kid gloves.
These they turn into a lining for waistcoats for the men of army and navy, who find that the kid makes the waistcoat windproof. It takes a number of pairs to line one garment, therefore the demand is great, and a brisk collection goes on.

Plan a "Dead Beat" Gallery.

The formation of a national gallery containing detailed information of "dead beats," is one of the aims of the Retail Credit Men's National association, which recently closed its sessions at Duluth, Minn. The idea is to send detailed information about chronic
"dead beats" from city to city.

Made My Life Worth Living

"I feel it my duty to tell others what Chamberlain's Tablets have done for me," writes Mrs. L. Dunlap, of Oak Grove, Mich. "I have suffered with pain in my back and under my shoulder blade for
a number of years,
also with a poor appetite and constipation.
I tried all of the remedies that I heard of,
and a number of doctors, but got no relief.
Finally a friend told me to try Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. I got a bottle of them and they soon helped my stomach; by their gentle action my bowels became more regular. Today I feel like praising them to all who suffer as I did, for they have cured me and made my life
worth living."

EYE STRAIN

is an important element in the causes of many nervous disturbances found in school children. Life is shortened by nervous debility and many a child is harmed more because his eyes are imperfect than from over-taxing his brain. Headaches are often cured, dull and stupid children made bright and the teachers' burden lightened by the correction of defective vision.

The Glory of Service.

John Greenleaf Whittier.

Who, looking backward from his manhood's prime,
Sees not the specter of his misspent time?

And, through the shade
Of funeral cypress planted think behind,
Hears no reproachful whisper on the wind

From his loved dead?
Yet who, thus looking backward o'er his years,

Feels not his eyelids wet with grateful tears,
Feels not his eyelids wet with grateful tears,

If he hath been Permitted, weak and sinful as he was,
To cheer and aid in some ennobling cause.

His fellow men?
If he hath hidden the outcast, or let in
A ray of sunshine to the cell of sin—

If he had lent
Strength to the weak, and in an hour
Of need,

Over the suffering, mindless of his creed
Or home, hath bent,
He has not lived in vain, and while he

The praise to Him, in whom he moves
and lives,

With thankful heart;
He gazes backward, and with hope before,
Knowing that from his works he never more

Can henceforth part.

Crop Conditions as Reported by Department of Agriculture.

The crop report for the week ending October 30th for the section of which Garza is the center, shows cotton 55 per cent with 75 per cent picked out; corn, 85 per cent, about all gathered; turnips, 100 per cent; gardens, 100 per cent, pie melons, 100 per cent; sweet potatoes, 110 per cent; wheat being sowed with an increase of 20 per cent in acreage. Boll weevil the only pest doing any damage, and that considerable in Denton and Cooke counties.

Angelina and Houston counties: Corn, estimated yield, 15 bushels per acre; cotton about nine-tenths gathered, yielding about one-fifth of a bale to the acre. Ribbon cane, 90 per cent; sweet potatoes 85 per cent; hay crops, 90 per cent; fall gardens and truck, 70 per cent; peanuts 75 per cent. Weather conditions ideal.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Burnet county and surrounding country: Cotton will make about a quarter of a bale to the acre; corn will average about twenty bushels to the acre. Smokehouses are full of meat and cribs full of corn.

Some top crop of cotton is being made along the Artesian Belt in Atascosa county, but picking is over save for odds and ends. The yield is very light—about a bale to five acres. Corn also is light; fall sorghum is good on limited acreage. The irrigated farms are shipping sweet potatoes, peppers, etc.

At Somerset some broom corn is being raised. McCulloch county: Crops in this section are being rapidly gathered and if the weather continues the cattle will soon be in all of the fields. Some plowing has been done and in some few fields small grain is coming up to a nice stand. At the present time it does not look as if as much grain would be planted as last season, the high prices paid for cotton will very likely have the tendency to increase the acreage in this crop next year in spite of the ravages of the boll weevil. For the last several weeks cotton has been bringing fair prices and cotton has been brought here that other years went to other places. Seed, as all over the state has been bringing record prices having brought as much as $38.50 per ton. For the last several weeks the weather here has been great—warm in the day time and just pleasantly cool at night. As soon as the farmers are up with their work a rain will be of use.

Crop conditions in the section of which Teague, Freestone county, is the center, as follows on the week ending October 31: Harvesting is about completed. The sweet potato acreage shows an increase of about 20 per cent over last year and the yield about 25 bushels per acre; ribbon cane shows about a fifty per cent increase of acreage over last year but is still small.

In that section of which Snyder, Scurry county, is center, and including three or four adjoining counties, a representative of the Department has found that the scourge of ravens, rabbits and prairie dogs have become a menace to the entire maturing crop with the result entirely in doubt. A campaign of extermination will begin at once.

Safe Farming Always.

A program of "Safe Farming" for the South is outlined in a circular which the United States Department of Agriculture has sent to bankers, business men, and farmers in the cotton States. The history of agriculture in the South, it has been said, has been one of lean years and fat years. Short crops and high prices have almost invariably been followed by big crops and low prices and, in consequence, the farmer has experienced much distress. The increased attention which has recently been given to supporting the people upon the land has already resulted in much good, but there is some danger, it is pointed out, that, with the price of cotton rising, there will be a tendency for farmers to return to the old system of gambling on cotton. If the people of the south produced their own living, the circular points out, it would steady the whole system and keep the boat from rocking. The safety measures recommended are as follows:

First: Produce a home garden for every family on the farm, the year round, paying special attention to a plot of Irish or sweet potatoes sufficient to supply the family with food of this character. Where feasible, have a patch of sorghum or other cane to produce syrup for the family.

Second: Produce the corn necessary to support all of the people on the farm and the live stock, with absolute safety.

Third: Produce the necessary oats and other small grain to supplement the corn as food. Pay attention to winter grazing.

Fourth: Produce hay and forage from some forage crop, sufficient to supply all of the live stock on the farm. Use legumes such as clover, cowpeas, velvet beans, soy beans and alfalfa for the production of hay and to enrich the soil with nitrogen and humus.

Fifth: Produce the meat necessary to supply the people, through increased attention to poultry and hogs, especially. Plan to increase gradually the number of cattle and other live stock so as to have a sufficient number to consume the waste products of the farm and make the waste lands productive.

Sixth: After all of these things have been amply provided for, produce cotton for the market.

Colds Do Not Leave Willingly.

Because a cold is stubborn is no reason why you should be. Instead of "wearing" it out, get sure relief by taking Dr. King's New Discovery. Dangerous bronchial and lung ailments often follow a cold which has been neglected at the beginning. As your body faithfully battles those cold germs, no better aid can be given than the use of this remedy. Its merit has been tested by old and young. Get a bottle to-day. 50c and $1.00.

Verdi Farmers Form Institute.

Verdi, Tex., Nov. 6.—Farmers of this vicinity at a meeting held last night at the school house organized a farmers' institute for the study of agricultural problems. F. M. Royal was elected president, T. D. Billingsley, vice president; E. N. Smith, secretary, and Ben Britte, entomologist. Fletcher Davis, lecturer for the State Department of Agriculture, was present and spoke on agriculture and assisted in organizing the institute. The crops in the Verdi section are almost gathered and have been the best in any part of Atascosa County this year. Cotton averages a third of a bale to the acre or better.—San Antonio Express.

The safest Liver Medicine which you often need, is Po-Do-Lax. Headaches, biliousness and dizziness caused by constipation readily yield to this "May Apple" laxative. Remember that it is non-gripping and easy in action. It arouses the liver and increases the flow of bile without sickening effects. Get over that irritableness by removing the cause—constipation. No gas, no fermentation, no pain. Po-Do-Lax, the perfect woman's laxative. 50c a bottle.

People who use Peruna

Mrs. T. Frech, R. R. 1, Hickory Point, Tenn., writes: "I am happy to tell you that I am cured of catarrh. Having been afflicted with catarrh and stomach trouble for seven years, and after having tried four different doctors, who only relieved me for a little while, I gave up all hope of being cured. I was induced to try Peruna, and to my great surprise I am now entirely well. My health never was better."

He Removed the Danger Signal

"I suffered a long time with a very weak back," writes Fred Smith, 325 Main St., Green Bay, Wis. "A few boxes of Foley Kidney Pills completely relieved me of all aches and pains in the back, and now I am as strong and well as ever."

One cannot help becoming nervous and feeling tired and worn out when the kidneys fail to filter and throw out of the system the poisonous waste matter that causes kidney troubles and bladder ailments.

Backache is one of Nature's danger signals that the kidneys are clogged up and inactive. It is often followed by rheumatism, annoying bladder or urinary disorders, puffy swellings under the eyes, swollen ankles and painful joints.

Foley Kidney Pills get right at the source of trouble. They invigorate the kidneys to healthy action and when the kidneys properly perform their functions the poisonous waste matter is eliminated from the system.

AT KAPPER'S SPUR

By IZOLA FORRESTER.

The Walters' ranch was the largest on the mountain, and they had a good house in the little town besides. But Rita Henty had been at school for four years down at Laramie, and Len Walters had never gone beyond the course he had right there at Kapper's Spur. It had been part of the fun of coming home summers to tease him and show him the decided difference between a person who has studied at Laramie and one who has spent the best years of his teens herding cattle.

Miss Baxter, the new schoolteacher, was to arrive on a Saturday, and just for nonsense Rita went to the station to meet her. Len was there, too. There had been some correspondence and it was settled the teacher was to live at the Walters' house. But Rita was mighty sweet to the stranger when she stepped from the washbound train, clad in brown, with a white felt hat on her soft blonde hair. And she took her away from Len with a laugh. Rita's father, the chairman of the committee, should meet her first. She would take her home to supper, and take her to Mrs. Walters later.

Len stood and watched them pass down the street from the station. Just for a minute he had looked into Sidney's eyes and they had been diverting. In the weeks that followed they never lost that first charm for him. Twice a week he rode in from the ranch, and Sidney grew to look for the visits.

"My father was a ranger," Sidney told him. "I'm named for him. I was born in the forest, so I guess it's natural for me to feel at home there and love it best. That's why I wanted to come up here and teach school."

"Would you like to stay?" He blurted it out clumsily, but she did not seem to understand what lay behind his words. How could she know that he pictured her living out at the ranch, his wife, and all the world turned golden. Sidney shook her head doubtfully. Perhaps if she could go back East sometimes. Rita had told her how tiresome Kapper's Spur he came. If her brother could come out and take up ranching, then she would like it.

"Send for him. I'll take him on with me," promised Len.

And the next few weeks Kapper's Spur thrilled at the small drama enacted under its very nose. Big Al Baxter, fresh from college, with a halfback record behind him, a sense of humor and plenty of good intentions, not only came on and went after ranching as if it had been trout fishing, but also after Rita Henty.

"The trouble with you western girls is that you're trying to be like eastern girls," he told her flatly. "Why don't you drop these latest style flub dubs and get into a short skirt and flannel waist and ride over to see us with Sid? After we're married, some day I'm going to teach you how to enjoy life."

"I wouldn't marry you for anything, Mr. Baxter," Rita told him teasingly. "Well, maybe not," said Al easily. "Did you know Len and Sid are engaged?"

"Really?" "Certain sure," he nodded his head solemnly. "Last night. This big gold moon of yours does wonders. I saw how things were going as soon as I came West, so I rather hurried them up. Told Sid she'd have to go back with me; that I didn't like the place, or Len, or the ranch. If you want a girl to go a certain way, you pull the bride opposite."

Rita's brown eyes flashed at the big, complacent fellow. He was so securely sure of himself and his power to win. It was fearfully slow at the Spur. Somehow Miss Henty began to find interest in teaching the Easterner western ways. She was hospitable to him and comradely. The captain liked him, and Rita invited him to the house often. Sidney would not be married until spring.

"Then I'll be going back East," said Al.

"When?" She almost whispered it. Her back was turned from him. Not for worlds would she have let him see her eyes, filled with tears, after she had laughed at him and been so self-sufficient.

"Any day after the first wind of spring blows this way. Still, it's some time to wait till spring. I can't help looking forward, though. I'm going to be married in April, long about the 10th; that's my birthday."

"Perhaps she would rather be married on her birthday."

"When is it, Rita?"

She turned on him passionately. "I think you are the most—"

"No, you don't," he caught her up. "You've just been spoiled, that's all. Every able-bodied man in twenty miles wishes he had a fighting chance to win you, and I haven't wished. The first time I saw you I made up my mind to marry you. If you don't like April 10, make it your own birthday. I'll let you. I asked the captain and he told me to go ahead and win with his blessing. So I have."

Captain Henty came strolling leisurely up from the corral.

"I just heard about Len getting the schoolma'am," he called up. "You can teach if you want to, Rita."

"She's engaged, Cap," Baxter answered genially. He put out his hand as Rita tried to rise. "You'll have to advertise."

HUSBAND RESCUED DESPAIRING WIFE

After Four Years of Discouraging

Conditions, Mrs. Bullock Gave

Up in Despair. Husband

Came to Rescue.

Catron, Ky.—In an interesting letter from this place, Mrs. Bettie Bullock writes as follows: "I suffered for four years, with womanly troubles, and during this time, I could only sit up for a little while, and could not walk anywhere at all. At times, I would have severe pains in my left side.

The doctor was called in, and his treatment relieved me for a while, but I was soon confined to my bed again. After that, nothing seemed to do me any good.

I had gotten so weak I could not stand, and I gave up in despair.

At last, my husband got me a bottle of Cardui, the woman's tonic, and I commenced taking it. From the very first dose, I could tell it was helping me. I can now walk two miles without tiring me, and am doing all my work."

If you are all run down from womanly troubles, don't give up in despair. Try Cardui, the woman's tonic. It has helped more than a million women, in its 50 years of continuous success, and should surely help you, too. Your druggist has sold Cardui for years. He knows what it will do. Ask him. He will recommend it. Begin taking Cardui today.

When one of our men was badly injured by the threshing machine we telephoned the doctor, who told us how to patch the man up. The doctor then started for our place in a hurry. When he arrived the man was pretty weak, and without the doctor's advice the results might have proved serious. Thanks to the telephone, the man pulled through.
